DEDICATION

Knighthood, the medieval symbol of strength, purity, wisdom and romance, has not perished with the ages. Looking back we discover a bond with the Knight, for we too have feasted at King's Round Table. Here, we have enjoyed the essential food of knowledge spiced with the experiences of opportunities in service, sport, and studies. We have nibbled on the sweet fruits of friendship and have plucked the bitter grapes of disappointment as well as the sweet Concords of success. One day we shall be invested with Knighthood, dubbed not by a cold, hard sword, but instead by a warm, friendly handshake. Clad in the armor of confidence and secure with a diploma as a shield, we will strive relentlessly, vaulting all obstacles, confronting any challenges; we will fulfill our pledges of service and honor.

Dick, Hope you had a good summer!
We had a real interesting class
Never a dull day!
Good luck in your future endeavors
Take care
P.S. Have a nice summer!

DR. WALTER L. BRAUER
Principal

Our world is about to witness ever fuller development in technology and still more rapid changes. The differential between technology and human ability to work out adjustments will become all the more acute. To help meet the challenge it would be well for all to keep two thoughts in mind. First, it is not enough to have knowledge and be able to think right; we must, also, possess a certain breadth of feeling and sympathy. We need to try to understand human destiny and the purposes of life as well as to know facts and reason well. Secondly, keep in mind that no individual is genuinely and lastingly happy unless he has something beyond himself to care about and work for. In serving others, be it individuals, groups, or causes, come self-realization as indicated by Frank Crane when he said, "Your sole contribution to the sum of things is yourself."

The thing which counts is not saying, but service. A happy school is one where everyone works up to their ability and service is offered from their hearts. Every student at King is enabled to make his maximum contribution to the school's welfare.

In Memoriam

ARNOLD A. LENZ

1901-1960

Youth looks toward Age
A thousand years away.
But Age looks back
And Youth was yesterday.
The years between, on flying feet,
Speed on till Life is done,
Eternity and Time are one.

Once more the penalty
Of swiftly passing years
Is ours. For Death again
Has called a colleague
From our midst, so suddenly
We stand aghast in unbelief
And in deep sorrow mark
His passing from our lives.

Let it be said of him
He loved the Earth
And all the lovely things
That grow. He loved
The joyful lilt of song
The sunset's grow, the
Beauty of a flower,
The power to know.

And through his passing
May we better comprehend
The value of each precious hour
God given each to spend.

RARELY A

Act I: With robins overhead singing of recent conquests, the forces of King Rufus prepare for battle under the spring sun.

Scene I: His Majesty's roving reporter is interviewing a member of the track squad.
Reporter: Will thee slow down (puff puff) for just a grain of the hourglass and give me some (pant pant) information about the track team?
Trackman: We had thirteen lettermen returning to the coaches, Lord Stanley Hanks, Lord John Foti, Lord Norman Ruenzel, and Lord Walter Dreyer. Look out for that hurdle!
Reporter: What hurd . . . Blasted fence! What was the team's record? (puff pant)
Trackman: We placed second in the Journal Meet, the City Indoor Meet, and the Shorewood Relays. Watch out for that broad jump pit!
Reporter: . . . Psahw! Sand tastes lousy! (pant puff) What about the State Meet?
Trackman: Two boys held fourth positions, John Triggs and Ernie Jackson. Better duck! Thou art running through the shot put area!
Reporter: Don't worry about . . . (clunk) Ooh! . . . thanks be to thee (puff pant pant puff). I must rush this to the scribes.
Trackman: Look out for that pole vaulter!
Reporter: Stop! Stop! Ooff! Eeeoow! Get me down! Oh, there must be an easier way to make a living.

Scene II: A knight, strolling through the tournament grounds, begins talking to inanimate objects.
Knight: Hark there, royal golf club! What saith thou today?
Golf club: Guided by the hands of one of His Majesty's golf players, I want to once again swing at a golf ball.
Golf ball: I don't want thee to! Those swings brought about by the coaching of Lord Lowell Adams really swat me hard. As a matter of fact, they swatted me right into third place in the City Meet and the royal "B" team knocked the core right out of me for first place.
Knight: And what about thee, tennis racket? What hast thou to say?
Tennis racket: With such wonderful form brought about by the efforts of Lord Sam Balistreri, I looked as though I were part of the tennis player himself. Coordinating with his arm I "served" the third place position to the King by winning thirty-one matches out of forty-two.
Tennis ball: GG . . . GA . . . GGAA . . . GAA . . . GAAD . . . S.
Knight: What's wrong with him?
Tennis racket: How wouldst thou like to go back and forth across a net 52,000,678,000 times?

Scene III: On the battle grounds near the castle of King Rufus.
Lord: Servant! Take a script to Lord Louie of Strike 3.
Servant: Aye, my Lord.
Lord: Louie, giveth my apologies to the Knights of the Round Table as I was withdrawn from my duties to oversee His Majesty's baseball organization. It is most interesting to see these young knights operate in this unusual game.
Servant: Is that all my Lord?
Lord: Silence! I must relate to them that the team had 12 wins, 8 losses, and 2 ties the previous season, and that practically their entire team will be in their so-called "line-up" this year again.
Servant: Is that all my Lord?
Lord: Be still! Tell them the team's coach is Lord Robert Neubauer.
Servant: Aye! But just one more question, my Lord. What kind of horses draw the coach?
Lord: Q U I E T !
Servant: As you wish my Lord! Quiet horses it shall be.

Act II: Trampling over the fallen leaves on the tournament fields, the battle lines of His Majesty surge ahead, bringing to a close their '59 march.

Scene I: Lord Walter Dreyer is giving the football team a pep talk.

Lord Dreyer: Ends, Tackles, and Guards! Lend me your ears! We come to bury the other team, not to praise them.
1st Player: Yon' the other team has a lean and angry look.
Lord Dreyer: Cry 'havoc' to the dogs of war for we hath taken second place in the City Standing and will fight a battle to the end.
2nd Player: And Lord Dreyer is an honorable man!
Lord Dreyer: There is a tide in the affairs of football players, when taken at the flood, rushes them on to victory.
3rd Player: And in our sea of men we hath Joe Heckl and Jim Repnik who were picked for the city team!
Lord Dreyer: Now get out there and fight!
4th Player: Et tu, Lord Dreyer?
Lord Dreyer: I'll be shouting words of confidence and criticism to you.
5th Player: We'd rather die like Caesar than lose this game!
Lord Dreyer: Thou will if thou don't!

Scene II: The King's messenger greets a cross country man.
Messenger: Hark! Royal runner! I see that thou art one of His Majesty's subjects who brought him trying scores by placing third in the City Meet and third in the North Shore Invitational.
Runner: 'Tis true.
Messenger: Wouldst thou relate to Lord Norman Ruenzel and the hill and dale runners that the King is most pleased with them?
Runner: Certainly.
Messenger: Thou art one who ran with the three returning lettermen, Marv Grant, Dave Henrichs, and Dick Spredemann.
Runner: 'Tis true.
Messenger: His Majesty wishes me back at the palace soon so I must depart.
Runner: I will run this message to Lord Ruenzel who is only one hundred miles away.
Messenger: ONE HUNDRED MILES!
Runner: Oh, I think nothing of running one hundred miles.
Messenger: I don't think much of it either.

BATTLE LOST

Act III: As the cold north wind blows reports throughout the kingdom of the first victories of '60, His Majesty's knights compete in various palaces.

Scene I: A thrilling battle of His Majesty's basketball team.

Ball: I wish those basketball players could hear me for only they can solve my problem. When I'm thrown through the hoop, I receive a serious case of basket-bumps!
1st Player: The hourglass is running out! Hasten and shoot the ball!
Ball: Oh! . . . my right side! Tell all the King's horses and all the King's men to trample that hoop! They don't realize how important I am. If it weren't for me, they wouldn't have taken second place in the City and first place in the Regionals.
2nd Player: We are winning, much to the King's approval!
Ball: I never get any approval. Off! . . . Down with the hoop! Long live the basketball!
3rd Player: We will acquire many victories for the King and His subjects.
Ball: I know that they are a much improved team and have four returning lettermen, but . . . OOW, my left side! It just sits up there like a halo on an angel. Ha!
4th Player: Great joys await His Majesty and our coach, Lord Wesley Smith. We hath won the game.
Ball: They don't even thank me. They just throw me aside into the corner. I never get thanks, but I get plenty of misery! I don't even care if my air seeps out!
King: I'm pleased with the team. Good work!
Ball: Gee, I guess I'm part of that "good work", too!

Scene II: In the Courtyard of His Majesty, an argument is taking place.
1st Knight: Thou hast tread upon my pride. I hereby challenge thee to a wrestling match.
2nd Knight: Thou art but a fool. No one in His Majesty's kingdom can match my skill at this game.
1st Knight: Ye jest me beyond repair. But enough of this mumble jumble. Out with the mats.
2nd Knight: Take heed. Thou art but a knave to challenge me.
1st Knight: I've watched His Majesty's wrestling team in competition in which Glen DePetro placed fourth in the city, Pete Bellinghausen placed first in the city, first in regional, first in sectional and fourth in state, George Kemnitz (3, 1, 1, qualifier), Jim Bubolz (—, 2, 3), James Repnik (4, 1, 1, qualifier), and Dennis Willey (—, 1, 2, qualifier).
2nd Knight: (meekly): Thou still hast not a chance.
1st Knight: I hath taken it upon myself to watch Lord Sam Balistreri and Lord Howard Sanders coach the King's team. Hark! Here are the mats.
2nd Knight: . . . Couldn't we (gulp) talk this over?

Scene III: It is day after the swimming team's last meet and a nervous little knave is floating about in the courtyard pool of the palace.
Knave: Sir Guard! Sir Guard! Sir Guard!
Guard: What! Who calleth! Oh, you on the inner tube.
Knave: Hear me out, oh most honored Guard. The royal finmen of our King, under the imperial direction of Lord Michael Huth, hath placed fourth in the Little City Meet and ninth in the City Relays. Do you not think this an excellent record for a newly formed team?
Guard: Yea, very fine.
Knave: The team had three top scorers in the Little City Meets. They were Don Oberlander, Phil Roessler and Fred Roethlisberger, and, to top off this good news, all ten letter men will return next year to make a team of great promise.
Guard: S A Y ! Why are you telling me all this and above all knave, why are you in the team's practice pool?
Knave: I tell you this for I am to give the King this very report and observing that this appearance is my first, I think practice is fitting.
Guard: Out of the pool or I shall unleash the dogs of war!
Knave: Wait good fellow, have pity on a nervous knave, for this pool water is indeed nerve soothing. You can believe me when I say I would give anything if I would not have to make this appearance.
Guard: Anything he would give? Well, I can do it for a lot less.
Knave: Do what for a lot less, old friend?
Guard: If you don't get the point, you will, old friend!

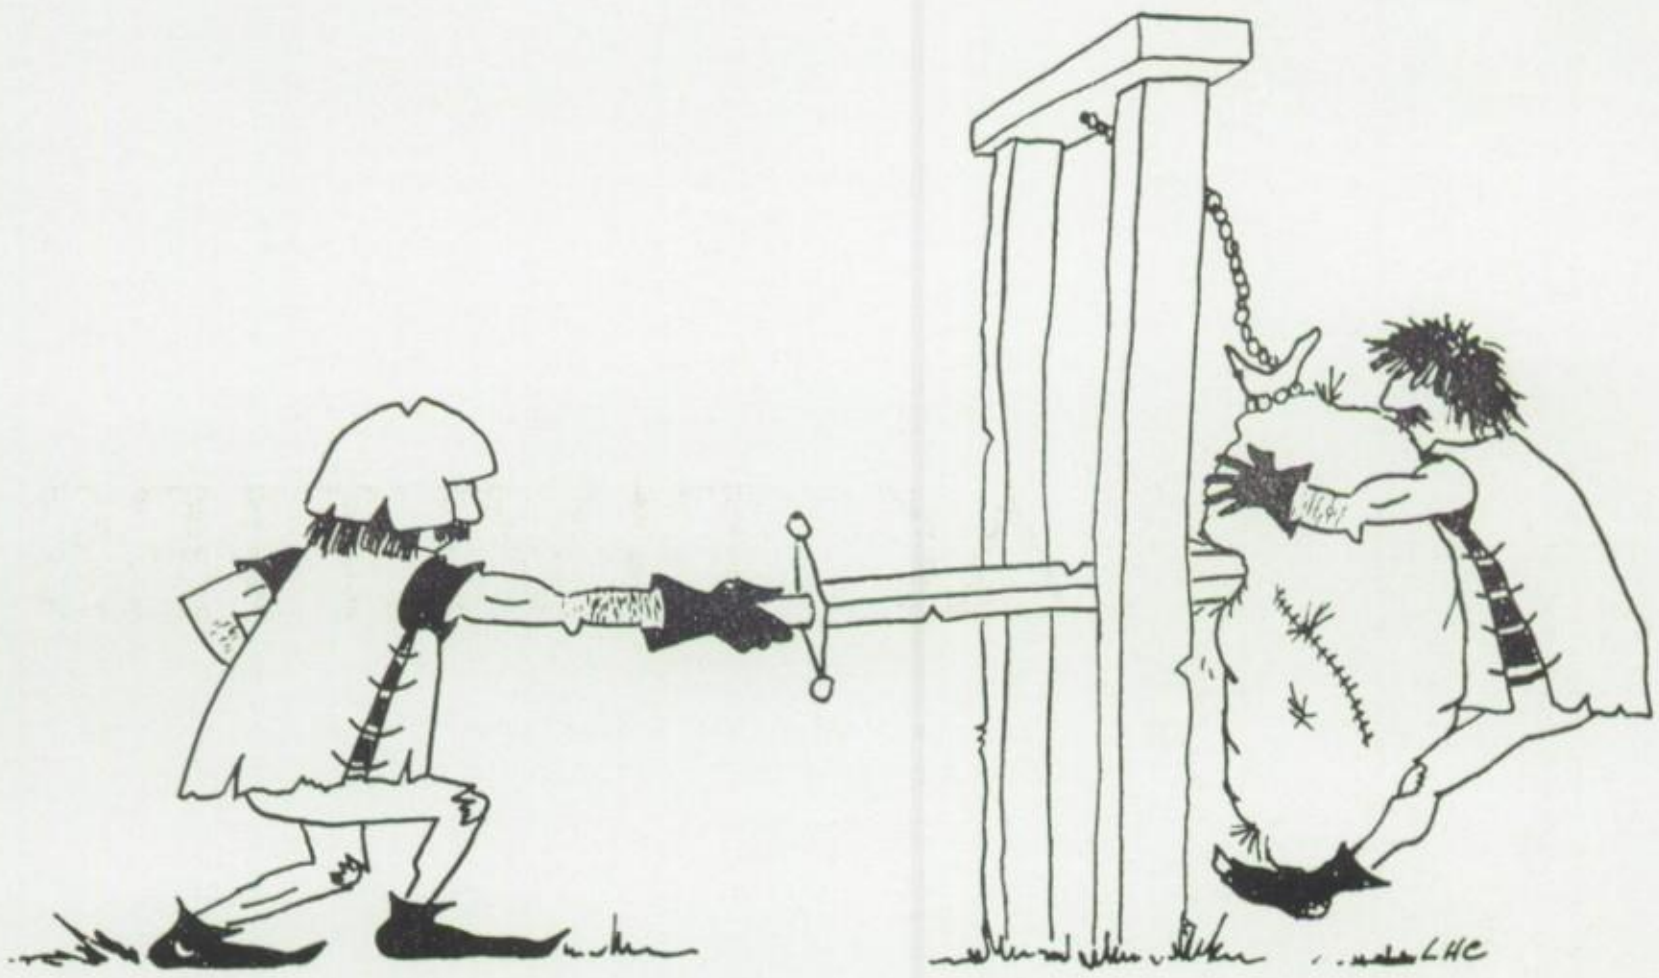
ACTIVITIES



Publications

Scene: Editors-in-chief of the King's Crown, George Kemnitz and Jim Repnik are talking with the editors-in-chief of the King's Page, Sybil Grandeck and Jim Beckett, in the King's dining hall.

George: Jim, the King will be pleased when we get the King's Crown out this year under the advisorship of Lady Mary Gaunt, Lord Bruce Bamberg, and Lord Edward Boerner, art advisor.

Jim: George, the Page is published bi-weekly under the advisorship of Lady Elaine Steiger.

George: I was talking to the other Jim.

Sybil: We work hard at the eighth turn of the hour glass in Chamber 414 everyday, right Jim?

Jim: No, the King's Crown staff meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the eighth turn of the hour glass in Chambers 307 and 514.

Sybil: I was talking to the other Jim.

George: The photographers have really been out there shooting under the direction of Lord Roy Myhre.

Jim: They work for both the King's Crown and the King's Page, right, Jim?

Jim: I'll have to agree with thee, Jim.

(Enter Photographer)

Photographer: Here are some pictures, Jim.

Jim: These are for the King's Crown. I work for the King's Page.

Jim: He means me!

George: I'll take them. Will you please leave now!

Sybil: I think Jim and I should leave now before we all get mixed up.

George: We'll see thee around, so long.

(Exeunt Sybil and Jim)

George: Well, Jim, let's see what work we can finish up for the King's Crown!

Jim: But George, I work for the King's Page!

BAND

Scene: A knave rushing through the palace is caught by a palace guard.

Guard: Hark! I hear footprints! Who goest there?

Knave: 'Tis I, a knave.

Guard: Where goest thou?

Knave: I must find Lord Micheal Yindra, commander of the band!

Guard: Art thou one of the band members who march and play at every football game after early morning practices?

Knave: I must find Lord Yindra!

Guard: Art thou one of the majestic band members who play at pep rallies, the Spring and Winter Concerts, and programs for the future subjects of the King, and . . . say, what hast thou in thy hand?

Knave: I must find Lord Yindra!

Guard: Thou must show me what is in thy hand or I will dash thee upon the floor and make thee scrub the palace.

(Knave shows hand)

Guard: What is that on your thumb?

Knave: I came to ask Lord Yindra to help me take this mouthpiece off my thumb!

ORCHESTRA

Scene: Two knaves in the halls of the palace.

1st Knave: Do you belong to Lord Arthur Zahorik's orchestra which meets in Chamber 122 every first turn of the hour glass?

2nd Knave: 'Tis true. I hear that you have an orchestra also.

1st Knave: That is true.

2nd Knave: Our orchestra plays for the school play.

1st Knave: Ours can do likewise.

2nd Knave: Our orchestra plays for the Christmas and Spring Concerts.

1st Knave: So can ours.

2nd Knave: Our orchestra plays for Graduations.

1st Knave: Ours also.

2nd Knave: Lord Zahorik's orchestra is the finest in the kingdom.

1st Knave: We can play for Graduations.

A CHOIR

Scene: Two knights are discussing A Choir at the inn.

1st Knight: Why did thou try out for the A Choir?

2nd Knight: Because I have a magnificent voice and thou knowest that.

1st Knight: Last year thou was conceited, but this year thou art perfect. Will thou have solos in the Winter and Spring Concerts, in the Dedication Service, and in programs for the future subjects of the King?

2nd Knight: Lady Alette Jahren will certainly let me. I might even succeed Pete Bellinghausen as president.

1st Knight: Thou won't be able to take thy daily ride at the sixth turn of the hour glass.

2nd Knight: I know, but the A Choir needs me and . . .

(Enter Message for Second Knight)

Message: We are sad to inform thee that thou did not make the A Choir.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Scene: A knight is talking to a knave who is hard of hearing.

Knight: Did thou enjoy the Variety Show sponsored by the Student Council?

Knave: 'Tis true that Friday is the day for the royal chef's show, "Stew 'n Ounces".

Knight: I'm talking about the Student Council which sponsors the Freshman Orientation Program and a foster child, and works with the P.T.S.A.

Knave: Who ever heard of a lost child working with Sir Peety Essay on an Orient program. He can't act!

Knight: Great Caesar's Ghost! It is the organization which sponsors pep rallies and dances.

Knave: Ney! Squire John carries Sir Peprallis' lances!

Knight: Hasn't thou heard of the King's Student Council which is presided over by John MacCleod and advised by Lord Allan Prasser and Lord Robert Poulsen?

Knave: The King is not flying over a cloud over the city of Lorenhasser robbing souls. He's still alive!

Knight: Oh, for the good old days of the torture men.

CROWN PLAYERS

Scene: Two knaves seeing the King approaching.

1st Knave: His majesty cometh to lend an ear to the Crown Players. If he is pleased, he will indeed support their purpose.

2nd Knave: What is their purpose?

1st Knave: To provide entertainment and dramatic education to all who seek it and try out for it.

2nd Knave: How is this so?

1st Knave: This is brought about by a yearly three act performance, several one act exhibitions, and their Yule play.

2nd Knave: These young people, are they the ones that gather at the ninth turn of the hour glass on the day Tuesday?

1st Knave: Yes. Their president is Jeff Nason and they are under the command of Lady Catherine Miller.

2nd Knave: How does one enter this clan?

3rd Knave: Through the door of Chamber 112, you imbecile!

F.T.A.

Scene: A stupid knave is talking to a prince tutored by an F.T.A. member.

Knave: Who ist dis?

Prince: Thou means 'who art thou'.

Knave: Where dist thou learned dis?

Prince: My good sir, I have learned the art of intellectual achievement from a member of the F.T.A. under the consulship of Lady Frances Scherkenbach with Barbara Dale president.

Knave: What all doest deez persons?

Prince: The members tutor students, take charge of classes in absences of Lords and Ladies, sell homecoming mums, go on field trips, and hold a faculty tea.

Knave: Wouldst thou answer one question more?

Prince: Oh, thou probably wants to know how much the homecoming mums cost, eh?

Knave: No! . . . how doest dis facoolty tea taste?
